

Crystal Basket

ENERGY YOU CAN WEAR · DUBAI

What this book is for

One place for everything that makes Crystal Basket look and sound like itself: the mark, the colours, the type, the voice, the photographs, and the small rules that keep them consistent across the website, Instagram, WhatsApp and the box that arrives at someone's door.

It is written for Alya and for anyone who helps her: a photographer, a printer, a friend posting stories. If a choice isn't covered here, choose the quieter option.

Energy you can wear.

Natural crystal bracelets, chosen by intention, hand-strung in Dubai, cleansed before they leave our hands.

Who it is for

Women in the UAE, mostly 22 to 40, who buy for a feeling, not a trend: calm before exams, confidence before a meeting, something soft for a sister. They shop on Instagram and TikTok, pay with a card or cash on delivery, and gift as often as they treat themselves.

What we promise

Real stone, never dyed or glass. Strung to last, on premium cord, re-strung free if it ever gives. Chosen by intention, so the first question is always "what do you need more of?", never "which stone is trending?".

How it feels

Quiet luxury with warmth. Think of a jeweller's counter in daylight, not a crystal shop at night: white surfaces, ivory linen, one gold bead, one rose accent. Feminine without being pink, spiritual without being mystical.

What we never say

We do not promise that a stone cures, heals or makes anyone rich. Stones are traditionally worn for something. The reminder on the wrist does the work; we say so honestly and it reads as more premium, not less.

The bead badge

Two rings of beads, a faceted crystal at the centre, the name curving inside, and one rose bead in the outer ring. It reads as a bracelet and a seal at the same time, which is exactly what the brand is: something worn, and something stamped on a box.

Primary badge · ink on white

Reverse · ivory on ink, for photos and dark packaging

Horizontal lockup · website header, email signature

Mark only · favicon, app icon, anything under 20 mm

Keep it clean

Clear

space

Leave empty space around the badge equal to the width of the crystal on every side. Nothing sits inside that space: no text, no other logos, no photo edges.

Don't

Print it in gold

Stretch or squash it

Put it on a gradient

Rotate it

Write over it

Recolour the whole mark

Minimum

size

Full badge:
24 mm in print, 96 px
on screen.
Below that the name inside
is unreadable,
so switch to the mark-only version,
which holds
down to 8
mm or 32 px.

Colour

Ink on white or ivory. Ivory
on ink or on a photograph

White, ink, one rose bead

The palette is deliberately plain so the stones carry the colour. White is the ground, warm beige is the band that sections the page, ink is for words. Rose is the single accent, used like the one bead in the logo: rarely, and on purpose. Gold is a material, not a colour: it appears as a bead, a hairline or foil, never as text.

 White #FFFFFF Page, product tiles, packaging card	 Linen #F6F3EE Bands, filter bar, footer, pouch	 Linen deep #EFEAE2 Hover states, second surface	 Ink #1A1A1A Text, buttons, the logo
 Muted #6B6B6B Secondary text, captions	 Hairline #E6E2DC Every rule and divider	 Rose #8F5F66 The accent: intention labels, saved hearts, one bead	 Gold #C9A961 Material only: bead, foil, hairline. Never text

Proportions

On any page or post: about 80% white and linen, 15% ink, 4% muted, 1% rose. If rose is noticeable, there is too much of it.

PART	RULE	EXAMPLE
Triad	Three words, dot-separated	Ease · Breath · Stillness

Body	Two sentences: tradition, then feeling	The classic calming stone, worn to quiet overthinking...
Affirmation	First person, present tense, printed on the card	I am calm. I can hear myself think.

Energy you can wear.

Use it on the hero, the pouch and the bio.
Don't add a second one.

The disclaimer

Every product page and the box card carry one line: Crystal meanings reflect traditional beliefs and are not medical advice. Keep it. It protects Alya and it reads as confidence.

Start with the feeling

Every bracelet belongs to one intention. It is how the shop is organised, how the meaning card opens, and how a customer describes what she bought. Each intention has a colour cue drawn from its stones; use it in photos and props, never as a flat fill.

Daylight, skin, linen, one bead of gold

Three shots per bracelet

SHOT	FRAME	WHY
On the wrist	3:4, natural window light, hand relaxed on linen or marble	Answers "how big is it?", the number one reason for returns
Product on white	1:1, flat circle, soft shadow, centred	The shop tile and the Shopify listing
Macro	3:2, beads filling the frame, inclusions visible	Proof it is real stone; sells the material

Always

- One light recipe for every product: soft key from a window, white bounce, no hard flash.
- Real inclusions, banding and flash left in. Do not retouch the stone to look "perfect"; perfect looks like plastic.
- Ivory, white and skin tones dominate. Colour comes from the stone.

Never

- Neon backdrops, smoke, candles, tarot props, purple gel lighting.
- Stock photos of other people's bracelets.
- Text on the photo itself. Words live next to the image.
- Heavy filters. If a filter is needed, the light was wrong.

Props that work

Linen, unglazed ceramic, marble, a single flower, a handwritten card, the pouch. One prop per photo, never a pile.

Until real photos exist

The site runs on AI-generated placeholders made to this brief. Replace them one product at a time; the file names and folders are listed on page 13.

Keeping it consistent

When something new is needed, a sticker, a story template, a pop-up sign, start from the badge, white and ink, Cormorant and Jost, and one rose accent. If it looks like a page from this book, it is right.
